TWICE TO END LIFE

Alex Ebert Inhales Gas and
Wounds Self With Revolver
Bullet.

Alex Ebert, a tall, thin man who has been on the vaudeville stage for more than twenty-five years, attempted suicide early today by firing a .22-caliber revolver bullet into his right temple. He was taken to the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital in a serious condition.

Just before Ebert shot himself his vaudeville partner, Otto Schenkel, who occupies a room adjoining Ebert's at No. 364 West 46th Street, smothered gas and on entering Ebert's room found him inhaling gas through a tube connected with a jet. He told Schenkel he was sick and couldn't sleep.

Ebert, it was said, had been unable to obtain an engagement for weeks.

A wrecking car from a garage was struck at 29th Street and Eighth Avenue by a touring car at 2:50 A. M. today and three men were painfully injured. They were:

Charles Casserelli, thirty-seven, No. 706 Eighth Avenue, and Frank Poggio, thirty-two, No. 324 West 49th Street, who were in the wrecking car, and William Thorpe, No. 53 Brighton Avenue, East Orange, who was a passenger in the touring car.

The first two are in Roosevelt Hospital, and Thorpe in Bellevue.

The wrecking auto, carrying a derelict, was going south and the touring car east. The chauffeur of the touring car fled after the accident. The owner of the car he was driving, William Schielek of No. 112 Cathedral Parkway, said no one had permission to take out his car.
